Valley Metro Rail is your connection to the best of the Valley’s arts and culture destinations. Most are within walking distance from a light rail station or just a quick bus connection away. Buy a day pass at any light rail station for unlimited light rail and bus rides on the same day. Leave the driving to Valley Metro and also enjoy one of the many local restaurants along the line. Just a few great reasons to ride Valley Metro Rail and leave your car at home.

Let Valley Metro help you discover the arts. Visit us online at valleymetro.org/destinations.

HOW TO RIDE

1. Buy a transit pass at any light rail station. A day pass costs $4.00 and is good for unlimited rides the same day on both light rail and the local bus.

2. Activate your pass before boarding.

3. Check the system map at the light rail station to make sure you know the train you need to board.

4. Pay attention to the signs on the front and side of the train that show the train’s final destination.

5. Remember that trains stop at every station. Upcoming stops are announced on the train so be alert.
The newly rehabilitated Memorial Hall, built in 1922 and situated in Steele Indian School Park, the former site of the Phoenix Indian School, is a historic building that offers an affordable venue for performing artists and a meeting space for community groups. Arts, Culture & Livability

The arts play an important role in the beauty, livability and economic development of communities. The creation and enjoyment of visual art, design, music, dance, theater, literature, natural history and cultural history enrich our lives, through them we express our humanity and communicate in ways accessible across all cultures and languages.

Arts and cultural organizations and their patrons are also economic drivers, generating state and city tax revenue and contributing to job growth in support industries such as restaurants, hotels and retail businesses. Arts and cultural activity attracts employers that rely on an educated and creative workforce.

Valley Metro and its partnering cities of Phoenix, Tempe and Mesa are proud to continue and contribute to a long history of support for the arts and cultural venues and activities that make the Valley of the Sun a great place to live and visit.
